THE

SOUTH-CAROLINA GAZETTE,

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Monday, November 3d, 1746. [Numb. 655.]

FLORENCE, July 12.

WE hear from Lombardy, that a Body of 5000 Men, commanded by M Mirepoix, who were ſent to attempt to ſurprize Pavia, had been repulſed Three Times by the Sardinian Troops, with the Loſs of about 2500 Men, and were obliged to leave moſt of their Ladders, and many Boats for the Uſe of a Bridge, which they had brought in Waggons.

Vienna, July 23. A great Council of State was held on the 20th, at the riſing of which Couriers were ſent to Peterſburgh, Dreſden, Munich, London, and the Hague, occaſioned, as is generally believed, by ſome Diſpatches of the laſt Importance received the Day before from the Frontiers of Moravia. General Count de Bernes is preparing to ſet out immediately in Quality of Plenipotentiary from their Imperial Majeſties to the Court of Berlin; and it is ſaid that Count Podewilhs will make a Tour from hence to Silеſia, in order to confer with, and receive new Inſtructions from his Mater. It is thought that the Trial of Baron Trenck will very ſpeedily be made publick; his Sentence is actually drawn up, and before her Imperial Majeſty, for her Approbation: The Common Opinion is, that he will be condemned to perpetual Impriſonment in the Fortreſs of Kuffſtein in the Tyrol.

Ratisbon, July 18. There paſſed through this City on the 16th, one M Regenitz, a Cabinet Courier of the Court of Spain; he had neither Paſſport nor Certificate, but has a Letter directed to her Majeſty the Queen of Hungary, ſealed with the Arms of Spain, which he ſays is written with King Ferdinand's own Hand, and contains the Notification of the Death of the King his Father. There have likewiſe paſſed through this Place for Munich within theſe few Days, ſeveral Carriages from Prague laden with Money, which are ſaid to be Part of the Subſidies granted by the Britiſh Court to the Elector of Bavaria, who is to receive from thence 150,000 Crowns per Ann. for Four Years certain, in Conſideration of the Bavarian Troops which are to enter into the Service of the Maritime Powers, and which are to be commanded by the Prince of Saxe Hildburghauſen, and, except his Serene Highneſs, are to have neither General Officer nor Brigadier.

Utrecht, July 28. We are juſt now in the like Situation that the King of Sardinia was on his Opening the Campaign this Year in Italy; and ſhall convince the World, that all our treating with France, hitherto, has been upon exactly the ſame Principles, viz. to gain Time to get the Army together, and to put ourſelves in a Situation to bid Defiance to the Arms of France, being no more Strangers to the pernicious Views of the Court of Verſailles, nor leſs deſirous to preſerve our Liberty and Independency than other People, which, I doubt not, but the Event will juſtify. That we ſhall not declare War againſt France, even though we were to beat its Armies out of the Field, I am very clear in; but ſhall, as Auxiliaries, purſue the ſame End as effectually as if we did: our Buſineſs, being, if poſſible, to keep our Trade open, and ſave the Expence of a Maritime Force, that we might be the better able to ſupport a ſuitable Power on Land. Your Fleets, if well conducted, being more than ſufficient to overmatch both France and Spain; and any we could at preſent raiſe in no Senſe ſufficient to guard our whole Trade; and the great End being to prevent the French eſtabliſhing themſelves in the Auſtrian Netherlands, our Armies are certainly of more Uſe to the Alliance than our Fleets could poſſibly be.

We are all at preſent at a Gaze, wondering what Meaſures his Pruſſian Majeſty will purſue on this new Turn of Affairs; nothing being more evident, than that if his good Ally, the common Enemy, happens to be beat out of Flanders, that Silеſia may be again in Danger; and, if he marches his Troops this Way, the Ruſſians will certainly enter the Empire, which is what he moſt dreads. So that we ſhan't expect to ſee him exert himſelf until the Approach of Winter, when it will be too late for a Ruſſian Army to make ſuch a long March; ſo, that it is to be hoped, that the Court of Vienna, and the Maritime Powers, will uſe their utmoſt Intereſt at the Court of Peterſburgh to have an Army nearer the Confines of the Empire before the Approach of Winter, leaſt the King of Pruſſia ſhould have it in his Power to turn the Scale again, and ſpoil all the happy Effects of a ſucceſsful Campaign.

Theſe Reflections, crude as they may appear, are not thoſe of a ſingle Man here, but the general Opinion of all the political Reaſoners throughout the Community; and are indeed ſo clear and obvious as not to admit of being diſputable.

Our Advices from Spain are very clear and particular, relating to the Conduct of the new King. It is very certain, that he will act honourably in relation to his Brothers Affairs, and get the beſt Terms for them he can; but only propoſes to intereſt himſelf ſo far therein, as that, if it ſhall pleaſe Providence he ſhould die without Iſſue, and Don Carlos come to the Throne, the Two Sicilies ſhall be given to his younger Brother, Don Philip independent of the Crown of Spain; and, if the Court of Vienna ſhall conſent to this all other Demands of the Crown of Spain on any other Part of Italy, will be entirely buried in Oblivion, and a firm and laſting Peace be eſtabliſhed between the Courts of Madrid and Vienna; and Italy be for the future in a perfect State of Tranquility. This is certainly judging of the general Intereſt of Europe rightly, and is the true Means of retrieving the Spaniſh Commerce, and ſaving their Money at Home, which ſhews King Ferdinand to be throughly acquainted with the true Intereſt of his Country; and that he has a Spirit and Addreſs to execute his Deſigns ſeems out of Doubt with all the Grandees about him.

Milan, Aug 20. O S We have received from the Army the following State of Priſoners made between the Month of March and the 11th of Auguſt, in the two Battles and in the Cities and Poſts from which the Enemy have been diſlodged, not including thoſe that have been taken by our Foraging Parties, in Marches, upon the Frontiers of Genoa, and in the Marquis de Caſtellar's Retreat,

Vienna, Auguſt 26th, O.S. The Court is uſing all proper Methods of Diſpatch, in order to form a diſtinct Army on the Frontiers of the Coaſt of Naples; to the End, that the Allied Army in the Weſt of Italy may be entirely at Liberty to enter into the South of France, while the Engliſh make a Diverſion on the Side of Bourdeaux; who are firſt to land and refreſh themſelves on the Iſland of Oleron, and thence to act as they ſhall find moſt adviſeable.

London, Sept. 9. We hear that the Regiment of Old Buffs is order'd to embark with the other Troops going on the Expedition.

When General Fowke went to the Companys Yeſterday on the Parade, to deſire three Men out of each Company to turn out Volunteers, ſeveral whole Companies huzza'd, threw up their Hats, and offer'd to go every Man.

Mr. Porter, who has for ſome paſt been charged with the Affairs of his Britannick Majeſty at the Court of Vienna, will ſoon ſet out from thence for Conſtantinople, in Quality of his Majeſty's Ambaſſador Extraordinary to the Ottoman Porte.

On Friday laſt the Court Martial, which has ſat ſeveral Days at the Horſe Guards, Whitehall, to examine into the Conduct and Behaviour of Sir John Cope, Knt. at the Battle of Preſton-Pans, having finiſhed their Examination, he was Honourably Acquitted.

It was reported at Leghorn, when the laſt Advices came from thence, that ſeven Engliſh Men of War and two Bomb Ketches are to pay another Viſit to Baſtia, the Capital of Corſica, from whence the Inhabitants have ſent for immediate Succours, while their Maſters, the Genoeſe are crying out for Aſſiſtance, to preſerve their own Capital.

Sept. 11. By an Expreſs from Plymouth of the 8th Inſtant we have Advice, that his Majeſty's Ships, under the Command of Admiral Lafock, remained ſtill in the Sound off that Port.

Letters from Plymouth give an Account, that Admiral Anſon, with Ten Sail of Men of War, was gone from that Port, without taking any of the Shipping that lie there, under his Convoy.

Letters from Naples ſay, that the Court was put into great Conſternation at the News of the late Battle on the Tidone; and ſome Accounts inſinuate, that the Tuſcan Troops, which have been for ſome encamp'd about Piſa, will take Advantage of this Succeſs, and contribute their Aſſiſtance to clear Italy entirely of all her Invaders.

Yeſterday Morning the two Battalions of the firſt and ſecond Regiments of Foot Guards, conſiſting of 2000 Men, Officers included, embark'd on board ſeveral Lighters, &c. which fell down with the Tide for Gravesend, where Tranſport Ships are ready to receive them, and ſail directly for Plymouth, to join the Forces under the Command of General Sinclair, which will then be a Body of 10,000, all choſen Troops.

His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland was at the Tower Wharff, to ſee the Troops embark, who went off with the greateſt Chearfulneſs, hoping, as they ſaid, to return with Conqueſt, and convince the World they were not unworthy of the continual Favours conferr'd on them by their glorious Commander.

Major General Fuller, Lord Ouſley, Lord Bentinck, and ſeveral other Volunteers, are ſet out for Plymouth, to go on the intended Expedition, with General St. Clair and Admiral Lafock.

We hear, that Three Men of War of conſiderable Force, are ſail'd to intercept 4 rich Ships from the South Seas for Cadiz.

By the Holland Mail arrived this Day we have the following Account: That the Allied Army under the Command of Prince Charles, had paſſed the Meuſe, and were ſo near that of the French, that they cannonaded each other acroſs that River; That Namur was inveſted by the French, under the Command of Count Clermont, on all Sides, but the Allies had thrown a freſh Supply of Men and Proviſions into that Place before that was effected; That the Bavarian Troops, in the Pay of the Allies, made forced Marches, and the firſt Column were expected to join that Army in a Day or two, And that every Thing look'd well in Italy, the Sardinian Troops having enter'd the Genoeſe Territories, the Enemy flying before them with great Precipitation.

There are Letters from Paris which ſay, that upon the Duke de Huiſcar's Arrival there from Genoa, he went, though it was late in the Evening, to the Houſe of the Prince de Campo Florido, ſeiz'd and ſecur'd all his Papers relating to his Embaſſy, in Virtue of an Order from his Catholick Majeſty for that Purpoſe; and at the ſame Time preſented him a Letter from the King, requiring him to deliver, in Writing, an exact Account of his Negociations, and after doing this, to retire to his own Eſtates in the Kingdom of Sicily.

Sept. 13. His Spaniſh Majeſty is ſaid to have order'd all the Men of War, in the ſeveral Ports of his Monarchy to be diſarm'd.

Mantua, Sept. 7. This Moment Prince Lowenſtein is arrived here from the Army, in his Way to Vienna, with the agreeable News of the Surrender of the City of Genoa at Diſcretion. All the Conditions the Senate aſked of her Imperial Majeſty, were, To preſerve the Liberties of the City, and that no Troops ſhould be ſent into the Town. That if they could obtain theſe Demands, they would engage to put into her Majeſty's Hands all the Forteſſes belonging to the Republick, and to give up every Thing elſe which ſhould be demanded of them; that in caſe the Empreſs deſired the City to be delivered up, the Senate were ready to ſubmit thereto. In all Appearance one of the City Gates will be ſecured by Way of Precaution. The Enemy having abandonned the Poſts of St. Pierre d'Arena, vaſt Magazines of all ſorts were found there. [This Paragraph from the London Gazette.]

Paris, Sept. 9. The Situation that Affairs in Scotland were in ſince the Battle of Culloden, leaving Prince Edward Stewart no Hopes of Succeſs, he at length determined to return to France. Capt. Du Mont, Commander of a Privateer, a Prime Sailer, cruiz'd ſome Time upon the Eaſt Coaſt of Scotland, where he took Prince Edward on board, and ſail'd for Flanders, where he arriv'd, after having eſcap'd ſeveral Engliſh Men of War and Privateers that gave Chace to him. He alſo brought over ſeveral Scotch and Iriſh Lords who ſerv'd in this Expedition. The exceſſive Fatigues which Prince Edward underwent, have occaſion'd a very bad State of Health, * but he is ſomewhat better than he was upon his Landing. As ſoon as Advice was receiv'd of his coming on Shore at Blanckenbourg, a Courier was ſent to Rome with Advice of it.

* The London Papers ſay, the young Chevalier is broke out like a Leper, and almoſt eaten up with the Itch.

CHARLES-TOWN, November 3

The Arrival of a large Fleet of French Men of War, &c. on the Coaſt of Canada, is now beyond all Diſpute, ſince the Hinchingbrook Man of War and many other Veſſels have been chaſ'd by and narrowly eſcap'd them; and 'tis thought the Comet Bomb (among other Veſſels) has fallen into their Hands: There is moreover certain Advice, that the whole Fleet is in Jebodie Harbour, where they are unrigging the Ships, have landed their Men, and are fortifying themſelves. One Antoine Rodriguez, Maſter of La Judith Tranſport, from Rochelle bound to Quebec, taken by the Kinſale and Hynd Men of War, and carried into Louisbourg, gave the following Account of the ſaid Fleet, That he ſail'd from Rochelle the 22d of June N S. in Company with 30 Sail of Ships, Men of War and Tranſports, under the Command of the Duke D'Anville, with 8000 Troops on board, 14 were Ships of the Line, from 50 to 74 Guns; that he left them on the 23d of July in Lat. 41, 22: And was taken off Antiecoſta the 5th of September.

Laſt Week arrived here Capt. Summerſett, in about 5 Weeks from Plymouth, by whom we learn, that Admiral Lafock, with 10 Ships of the Line, and a great Number of Tranſports having on board 10,000 Men commanded in Chief by General St. Clair, was ſail'd about 10 Days before, on a ſecret Expedition: The Opinions of People on the Deſtination of this Fleet are various; ſome ſay, it will go to to Cape Breton; ſome, that it will land on ſome Part of France to be join'd by a great Number of Proteſtants; others ſay, that it will proceed directly to the Mediterranean, to aid his Sardinian Majeſty in his Operations in Provence or land in Corſica, &c. &c. That ſeveral of the Rebel Officers have been tried, convicted, hang'd, and quarter'd; That the Earl of Kilmarnock, and Lord Balmerino were beheaded the 18th of Auguſt, on Tower hill; and that Interceſſion had been made with his Majeſty for the Earl of Cromartie, who had been convicted of High Treaſon, with the two other Lords above mentioned.

The

This Morning sail'd for England, his Majesty's Ship Tartar, commanded by Henry Ward, Esq; she has on board a vast Treasure for the Merchants, and several Passengers, amongst whom are, the Hon. Benjamin Whitaker, Esq; Chief Justice of this Province, Sir James Home, Bart. the Lady of Capt Utting deceased, Mr Patrick Reid Merchant, the Rev. Mr. Millechamp, and the Rev. Mr. Thompson.—Several Ships are sail'd under Convoy of the Tartar; and our Coasts are now without a Guardship.

Thursday last being His Majesty's Birth Day, the Charlestown Regiment and both Troops of Horse were drawn up in Battalion on the Parade, and reviewed by his Excellency the Governor, leading into the Field the Chiefs of the Indians that lately arrived in Town, who were mightily pleased with the Manual Exercise, Firings, &c. His Excellency also shew'd the Indians the several Forts, where his Majesty's and many other loyal Healths were drank, under a Discharge of the Cannon, &c And the whole Day and Evening were spent in a Manner suitable to the joyful Occasion.
